Jesus Santana became involved in FFA through his advisor, Mr. Jim Wildermuth, who encouraged him to participate in the conduct of chapter meetings. After that experience, Jesus began to participate in all chapter activities and events. Over time, his experiences in the organization have helped them grow in areas such as being a servant leader to his chapter and community, trust and confidence by peers and advisor to realize tasks, working with his officer team, or personally increasing his passion Ag Education.

“During my time in FFA, I have had the privilege of getting to know all things related to ag, the insights of being a FFA advisor and Ag teacher, and that being a leader is not about the position, it's about how much you help and serve others to be successful ” Santana shared.

Jesus Santana's FFA involvement has been pivotal in shaping his agricultural passion and career aspirations. Through participation in various CDE's & LDE's and leadership roles at both chapter and state levels, he has defined a future in Ag Education. His ultimate goal is to return to his home chapter as an agricultural teacher, aiming to inspire future leaders as his own advisor inspired him.

As a State Officer, he hopes to encourage members throughout the state to become active chapter members participating in career development events, community service projects, and leadership conferences.

“I hope to be the connection between officers and students and to inspire the next generation of FFA members.”
